Mission

Established in 1924 and formed as a national body in 1933, the AIIA is an independent, non-partisan, non-profit organisation with more than 1,400 members across seven state and territory branches.

The AIIA hosts various events, offers educational opportunities and produces publications to achieve its role and mission of:

- Providing a forum for debate
- Disseminating ideas
- Educating on international issues
- Collaborating with similar organisations

There are a number of ways to get involved including membership, events, youth networks, donations, publishing and volunteering.

Event Highlights

In 2011-2012 the AIIA's seven branches held a total of 183 events across the country, involving highly distinguished international and Australian experts.

These events addressed themes as diverse as humanitarian intervention, international law, strategic and foreign policy formation, global institutions, geopolitics and climate change.

Discussion and debate focused not only on Australia and its immediate neighborhood, but also the Middle East and North Africa, Latin America, South Asia, Sub-Saharan Africa, Europe and North East Asia.

Dialogue

National President's Forum: India 2020

On 24 August 2011, the AIIA hosted a National President's Forum on India 2020 at Parliament House in Perth. The Forum involved the participation of a select group of 40 Australian and international speakers who covered topics such as India's strategic context, its internal dynamics and the implications for India-Australia relations.

Indonesia-Australia Dialogue

On 4-6 October 2011 the AIIA was pleased to act as secretariat for the inaugural Indonesia-Australia Dialogue, in conjunction with the Indonesian Centre for International and Strategic Studies. This initiative was jointly announced by leaders during the March 2010 visit to Australia by Indonesian President Yudhoyono. The Dialogue is a bilateral second track dialogue designed to enhance people-to-people links between the two countries.

Global Korea, Global Australia

In February 2012 the AIIA organised a forum 'Global Korea, Global Australia' in partnership with the Korean Institute of Foreign Affairs and National Security (IFANS). It included a discussion of Australia's and Korea's shared experience in middle power diplomacy; the shifting landscape of the Asia-Pacific; global governance; regional architecture in the Asia-Pacific; and the common economic agenda of Korea and Australia.

Overcoming Misperceptions in Australia-Japan Relations

Held in conjunction with Griffith University and the Japan Institute of International Affairs, this 1.5 track dialogue held in Brisbane from 18-19 August 2011 featured a frank exchange of views between Japanese and Australian policy officials and academics, in addition to commentary on the relationship's broader regional significance.

International Studies Association Convention

In April 2012 the AIIA chaired a roundtable discussion at the 53rd Annual Convention of the International Studies Association in San Diego involving nine other institutes of international affairs. Roundtable participants presented on institutes' current and potential use of new technologies and shared specific recommendations for improving their institutes' impact.

The AIIA participated in the 4th ASEAN Australia New Zealand Dialogue in Kuala Lumpur on 4-6 December 2011.

Smart Power Seminar

In February 2012 the AIIA hosted a seminar to discuss, debate and engage with the concepts of hard, soft and smart power. The seminar brought together senior government officials, members of the Australian Defence Force and Federal Police, academics, the media and industry for a Chatham House rule event. The object of the seminar was to identify Australia's smart power capability requirements as well as means of measuring effectiveness. Findings and recommendations were presented in a report to government and published as a book: The Smart Power Capability Requirements of Australia as a Middle Power.

G20 Think Tanks Summit

In June 2012 the AIIA invited to attend the G20 Think Tanks Summit at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia with presidents, senior executives and scholars from the leading G20 foreign policy think tanks. The summit theme was Global Challenges, Increasing Responsibilities. Discussion focused on the role of foreign policy think tanks in an ever-changing global environment.

Research and Publications

Ass. Prof. Shirley Scott, Research Chair

The AIIA has continued its energetic programme of research activities over the last year.

This year the Committee has established a publication support grant to facilitate research on contemporary topics relevant to Australia's foreign policy. The grant will be made to facilitate the publication of an original and high quality book on a contemporary topic of major relevance to Australian foreign policy, incorporating some transnational or comparative perspectives. Funds can be utilised for such needs as a publishing subvention or defraying the cost of hosting a workshop for contributors to an edited volume, airfares for international authors or on general research assistance. The Research Committee looks forward to working in partnership with scholars on this project.

Two policy commentaries were published:

- Cross-Straits at the Crossroads: Taiwan's 2012 Elections (January 2012)
- No Eutopia: The European Union Today (April 2012).

The policy commentaries are disseminated to AIIA members in print via branches and are available from www.aiaa.asn.au

Middle Power Dreaming: Australia in World Affairs 2006-2010

Since 1950 the AIIA has published a regular review of Australian foreign policy, Australia in World Affairs. The latest volume in this definitive series charts Australia's foreign policy recalibration between 2006 and 2010, an era characterized by the Global Financial Crisis, disillusionment regarding the 'War on Terror', and the dawn of the Asian century.

Middle Power Dreaming was edited by Professors John Ravenhill and James Cotton (right) in their fourth contribution to this long-standing and prestigious series. It is published by Oxford University Press.

National Executive Director Melissa Conley Tyler edited Emerging Scholars 2011-2012, this year publishing a record 13 articles by AIIA interns. Topics included food insecurity, the UN Security Council and developments in the Middle East. We are appreciative of the contribution of this year's review panel, Chad Mitcham and Sue Thompson.

Thanks is also given to ACT Branch President Ian Dudgeon and Melissa on the publication of The Smart Power Capability Requirements of Australia as a Middle Power.

Work on International Law in Australia (3rd edition) is continuing under editor Professor Donald Rothwell of ANU. Thomson Reuters has agreed to publish this title.

Australian Journal of International Affairs

First published in 1947 as Australian Outlook, the Australian Journal of International Affairs is Australia's leading scholarly journal on international affairs.

The aim of the AJIA is to publish high quality research on international political, social, economic and legal issues, especially (but not exclusively) within the Asia-Pacific region. The AJIA aims to analyse international issues for an Australian readership and to present Australian perspectives to readers in other countries. While seeking to stimulate interest in and understanding of international affairs, the journal does not seek to promote any particular policies or approaches.

In 2011 more than 39,000 articles were downloaded and the journal was accessible in more than 12,000 libraries globally. The journal is regularly ranked in the top 50 worldwide in the ISI citation ranking for international relations journals.

The AJIA is published five times a year by Routledge Taylor & Francis. I thank Managing Editor Tracey Arklay and the AJIA's outgoing and incoming book review editors Maryanne Kelton and Caitlin Byrne for their contributions to the AJIA.

Youth and Community Engagement

AIIA VIC Study Tour to China

Led by Les Rowe and Zara Kimpton OAM, the 2012 AIIA VIC study tour took place from 5-19 May. China was chosen for this year's study tour due to its obvious importance to Australia and increasing international prominence.

The group traveled to Beijing, Pingyao, Nanjing and Shanghai which provided the opportunity for the group to experience different facets of China. The tour aimed to give participants a basis on which they would be able to follow future developments in a more informed manner, which was achieved through meeting diplomats, business representatives, academics, journalists and political scientists as well as visits to museums and historical and cultural sites.

AIIA VIC International Careers Conference

AIIA VIC held its seventh International Careers Conference on 26 August 2011 at the University of Melbourne. Its purpose was to give those attending a framework and understanding of the context of an international career.

VCE Schools Program

AIIA VIC continued to run its successful seminar series including a session on 'Ethical Issues and Debates'. These sessions are designed to assist students studying the VCE subject International Studies and are very well-attended. The high calibre of speakers provides students with real insight into international issues.

Nygh Internship

The Peter Nygh Hague Conference Internship is an award in memory of the late Hon Dr Peter Nygh AM, a leading international lawyer and former judge of the Family Court of Australia.

The Nygh Internship was established with the Nygh family, the AIIA and the International Law Association (Australia Branch) with support from the Attorney-General's Department to provide a law student or graduate with the rare opportunity to travel to The Hague Conference and work with international leaders in private international law.

Reception for 2012 recipients Drossos Stamboulakis and Tsjatsja Westerveld

Young Diplomats Program

Winners with National Deputy Director John Robbins

The Young Diplomats Program is an educational program introducing secondary school students to international relations run in cooperation with James Cook University. Teams of Year 10 students test their research and diplomatic skills in a mock international negotiation. The 2011 group winner was Pimlico State High School, Townsville.

Australia in the Asian Century

The AIIA was involved in community and youth engagement around the Government's White Paper on Australia in the Asian Century. With funding from the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet the AIIA ran a number of competitions to encourage university and school students to have a say about Australia's engagement with Asia in the 21st Century.

An essay competition gave high school and university students the chance to express their views, with the six winning entries being published in Monthly ACCESS. A graphics competition gave budding artists the chance to submit a image or design. A "Make a Pitch" competition gave students the chance to prepare an idea for a program to improve Australia's public image in Asia. The AIIA congratulated all winners on their contributions.

Wollongong Town Hall Meeting

On 24 May 2012 the AIIA held a Town Hall Meeting in Wollongong to discuss the White Paper on Australia in the Asian Century. Held in partnership with the University of Wollongong and the Wollongong City Council, the event brought together expert panellists and the community to contribute to debate around the White Paper.

Australia's Role in the World

To create a platform for these competitions and ongoing debate, a new Australia's Role in the World website was launched as a partnership initiative of the AIIA, The University of Melbourne and UN Youth Australia. It aims to promote debate on global issues and Australia's role in international affairs. News and opinion pieces are updated regularly at www.australiasroleintheworld.org.au.

AIIAvision YouTube Channel

The AIIA also launched a new YouTube Channel and recorded more than a dozen talks around the country to promote debate.

Youth and Community Engagement

Internships

Each year students and graduates from around Australia and the world intern at the AIIA to gain practical experience in research, events, communications and office management while building networks and, in some cases, earning course credit. The AIIA thanks each intern for the contribution made.

Youth Networks

The AIIA has active youth networks in ACT, Queensland, Victoria and WA. Activities include:

- Promotion at university orientation days
- Careers events and mentoring programs
- Specific youth events, including talks on the Australian Youth Ambassadors for Development program
- Essay writing competitions at ACT Branch
- A “Developing International Scholars Workshop” for students considering postgraduate study offered by WA Branch
- Two youth publications, Monthly ACCESS and Quarterly ACCESS produced by AIIA VIC’s ACCESS network
- Bursaries for student travel and service provided by WA Branch

Honorary National Treasurer's Report

Mr Dayle Redden,
Honorary National
Treasurer

At a National level, the AIIA's income continues to be derived from four main sources:

- rental revenue from AIIA headquarters at Stephen House
- annual grant from the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade
- royalties from publications
- sponsorships, donations and bequests.

Unfortunately the major income stream from rental revenue has been reduced by unexpected and long term vacancies. Despite the best efforts of all concerned the AIIA faces financial challenges in remaining in Stephen House. Skilled leadership and efficient administration will need to be brought to bear along with some very tough decisions by the National Executive to ensure the long term future of the organisation.

On a brighter note, National Vice President Zara Kimpton OAM is an outstanding role model for donors. She had previously very generously pledged $10,000 per year for five years, and has now increased that pledge to six years. Thank you Zara. All donations to the AIIA are tax deductible and donated funds are distributed to the state branches according to the donor's wishes.

The organisation's ongoing expenditure is associated with the previously mentioned income streams, such as maintaining Stephen House, the AIIA's publishing activities and DFAT grant activities. Salary expenditure is low for such a high-profile organisation as the AIIA, with the National Executive Director and Deputy Director being the only paid workers. We are very fortunate to benefit from the broad-ranging voluntary assistance of volunteers and interns from both overseas and Australia.

Overall, the AIIA's National Executive has been responsible in ensuring that the AIIA's Australia-wide membership, of more than 1,400, is well-served and that the AIIA remains focused on the primary aim of promoting an interest in, and knowledge of, international affairs. Nonetheless the AIIA will soon have to consider both reducing activities and resolving its property difficulties in order to overcome its shortfall in revenue.
