

About the Australian Institute of International Affairs (AIIA)

In 2015 the AIIA was ranked the top think tank in Southeast Asia and the Pacific in the Global Go To Think Tank Index.

The AIIA is an independent, non-profit organisation seeking to promote interest in and understanding of international affairs in Australia.

The AIIA was formed in 1924 and remains the only nation-wide organisation of its kind in Australia.

The AIIA provides a forum for debate by arranging lectures, seminars and workshops for its members, but does not seek to formulate its own institutional views. More than 200 events covering a range of issues in international affairs are held across the country each year.

Members may attend meetings held by other branches and use the facilities of the National Office in Canberra. The Institute is one of a global network. Introductory letters can be given for networking and for arranging the use of facilities in similar institutes overseas.

The AIIA publishes the Australian Journal of International Affairs covering international political, social, economic and legal issues. The journal is distributed six times annually. In addition Australian Outlook is the AIIA's national online showcase for high-quality analysis and comment on international affairs.

The AIIA has specific youth programs including careers fairs, internships and young professionals networks around the country.
