In 2015, the Australia-Indonesia Centre, alongside Indonesia's Ministry of Foreign Affairs, launched the Australia-Indonesia Leaders Program to ensure that future leaders from government, business and academia in both nations developed strong relationships as they move into national leadership positions.

The program aims to:

1. Engage a highly influential network of emerging leaders in both nations.
2. Enable exchange of knowledge, understanding and skills to address shared challenges.
3. Foster ongoing relationships and new partnerships between alumni delegates.

Executive Summary

The Australia-Indonesia Centre delivered the third Australia-Indonesia Leaders Program on May 18-27, 2016 in Sydney, Melbourne and Canberra.

Throughout the program, 28 delegates engaged with over 100 government, business and academic leaders from both nations in a series of leadership courses with 5 universities, 3 VIP dinner functions and a range of cultural activities.

The third Australia-Indonesia Leaders Program marked several key milestones. For the first time:

- The Indonesian government, through the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, co-invested financially in the program.
- Australian delegates from government and universities joined Indonesian delegates for the program.
- A leading Indonesian university - Paramadina University - delivered a leadership course alongside Australian universities.
- The program theme is aligned with the Centre's research agenda in energy.
- The program delivered all content through digital platforms, including a mobile app.

Delegate Testimonials

“Quality well designed program that is instrumental in bridging relations between Indonesia and Australia. Any leadership that is serious in committing towards the relationship could not afford to not send their best people to this program. Thank you so much to the Australia-Indonesia Centre for the job well done! After hosting us, Australia could not be closer to our hearts. We miss you and the new friends made during our too short of a stay in Australia. May these friendships be lifelong. Count me in for support in strengthening the relationship between Australia and Indonesia.”

Dr RM Aria Wibisono, Ministry of Foreign Affairs

“Mind broadening and valuable on so many levels - I feel absolutely privileged to be one of the first Australian delegates.

Dijana Mirkovic, Department of Education and Training

“The program enabled me to explore issues and possibilities with leaders from various sectors in both countries. The combination of formal, intellectual & informal activities has given us a deep shared experience with which to continue fostering our bilateral relations & collaborations well into the future.”

Dr Max Richter, Monash University
